About the Award

The Publicly Engaged Scholarship Team Award is presented annually to faculty members, post-doctoral and graduate students, and/or community partners in recognition of collaborative efforts to combine their knowledges and produce an outstanding social impact locally, nationally, or internationally over the past five years.

Eligibility

This award is open to all tenured and tenure-track faculty members and/or members of the College of Graduate and Postdoctoral Studies at the university, their postdoctoral and graduate student researchers, and their collaborating and partnering communities.

The University of Saskatchewan strongly encourages nominators to consider equity, diversity, and inclusion when putting deserving colleagues/teams forward for these awards. There is increasing evidence that members of four designated groups (women, members of a visible minority or racialized group, Indigenous persons, and persons with a disability/disabilities) are nominated at significantly lower rates for research awards despite substantial academic achievements.

We encourage members to think broadly about possible candidates/teams as well as the different ways in which excellence can be demonstrated by outstanding candidates/teams.

Selection Criteria

The selection committee may consider the following criteria in selecting the recipient:

- Evidence of knowledge mobilization or knowledge transmission contributions, including, but not limited to, scholarly literature, commissioned reports, professional practice(s), public discourse, public policies, products and services, artistic expression, collaborative engagement, etc.;
- Quality of engagement with community(ies) benefitting from the social innovation;
- Quality of engagement with, and quality of training and mentoring provided to, students, emerging scholars and participants, in the creation and implementation of the social innovation;
- Evidence of influence and impact on social outcomes; and
- Recognition by professional societies, community organizations or other external bodies.

The selection committee reserves the right to withhold the award if there are no suitable candidates/teams in any given year.

Selection Committee

The award recipients will be chosen by a selection committee that includes:

- Vice-President Research or designate (Chair).
- Two senior scholars experienced in community engaged scholarship representing the broad areas of fine and performing arts; social sciences and humanities; natural and applied sciences; and health sciences.
- Two external community leaders or partners.
- A graduate student representative and a postdoctoral fellow representative.

Nomination Procedures

Each year, the Office of the Vice-President Research will issue a call for nominations.

Candidates/teams must be nominated by a colleague at the University of Saskatchewan and a community member. The nomination package must include:

- A letter from the nominators summarizing the candidate(s)/team's research, scholarly and/or artistic achievements and outlining the national or international public significance of the candidate's/team's work. (The nomination letter should not exceed 3 pages).
- Current curricula vitae of the University of Saskatchewan team representative(s) in the standardized format required by the University of Saskatchewan.
- Three letters of support. One letter from the University of Saskatchewan in cognate fields, commenting on the import and impact of the candidate(s)/team's publicly engaged scholarship nationally and internationally. Two letters from scholars outside the University of Saskatchewan, or external community leaders or organizations (other than those supporting the nomination).
